No ordinary view: A season of faith and mission in the Himalayas

Naomi Reed

Ark House Press

ISBN 9780980452341

A gripping story, compellingly told. An Australian missionary, wife and mother in Nepal during the recent Maoist revolution, Naomi Reed involves the reader in the drama that enveloped her family. From within the uncertainty of Nepal's political unrest, Naomi continues the story of her family's vision to share God's love in words and action, training Nepali physiotherapists. With refreshing candor, she builds into her story helpful reflections on how Christ was at their side during the worst (and the best) moments. It's all about trust.

Naomi is a gifted writer who holds the reader spellbound in this sequel to her first book My seventh monsoon. More than once we were moved to ask ourselves, what are we doing with our lives?

The Himalayan view from our back porch was normally breathtaking but that day I sat there and wondered. Ten years of civil war, a deteriorating health care system, an economic crisis and a political stalemate. It was a background of hopelessness for the lives of our Nepali friends and the community that we lived in. In such a setting of pain and darkness, how could God reveal his nature? And how could he call me by name? I wasn't sure. I didn't think it was possible.

Catherine's gift: Inside the world of Dr Catherine Hamlin

John Little

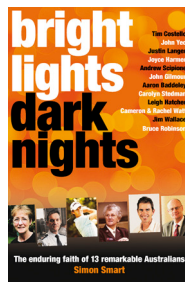

Pan Macmillan Australia

ISBN 9781405038829

John Little continues the story of Catherine Hamlin, an Australian regularly hailed as a 'national living treasure'. Together with her late husband she founded a fistula hospital in Ethiopia half a century ago. Catherine's Gift tells the story of Dr Hamlin and her patients, and how her work attracted recognition and support from around the world. Her life of faithful obedience makes a vivid story that all readers are likely to find deeply moving.

Other Short-listed titles

Bright lights,
dark nights:
*The enduring faith
of 13 remarkable Australians*
Simon Smart
Blue Bottle Books
ISBN 9781921460104

The thirteen Australian Christians include Aaron Baddeley, Tim

Costello and Justin Langer together with others whose stories are not as well known but deserve to be. The focus is on how their faith has an impact on their daily lives. From the wife of a former prisoner to a Federal Court judge this book tells the story of thirteen remarkable Australians in natural and accessible language to encourage you to persevere and to inspire others to believe.

Now that you
are back:
A journey through depression
Richard Beeson
Blue Bottle Books
ISBN 9781921460104

A revealing personal story about a journey into the black depression again. This is an awareness-raising book that will be of use for anyone who experiences depression or knows someone who does. It will enable individual Christians and churches to better support people who suffer from depression themselves and those who 'suffer' with them.

Refuge on the Roper:
The origins of Roper River Mission, Ngukurr
Murray Seiffert
Acorn Press
ISBN 9780908284672

The astonishing story of the birth and growth of the Roper River Mission in the Northern Territory;

beginning with God's work in the hearts of Victorian Christians in the early years of the 20th century. This carefully researched and scrupulously documented book tells a story that needs to be told about the positive role of missionaries in the lives of remote Aboriginal Australians. Well illustrated and indexed, this is an important addition to Australian Christian history.

Joint 2nd Prize

Preach or perish: Reaching the hearts and minds of the world today

Donald Howard (ed)
Donald and Nan Howard
ISBN 9780646502649

This volume gathers a wealth of practical wisdom from Marcus Loane, Ken Short, John Chapman, Peter Jensen, J I Packer and a host of others. The editor contributes linking chapters that make this much more valuable than a simple anthology. This book will provide inspiration and guidance for anyone called upon to preach or lead a Bible study or teach in Sunday School. This may well become a standard text in theological and Bible colleges.

Take heart:
For families living with disability
Kate Hurley
Blue Bottle Books
ISBN 9781921460135

A mosaic of stories about those who are living with disabilities they face daily and their faith in the Saviour who loves their children even more than they do. This book meets a need for an informed, empathetic and Biblical view of disability. It will enable churches and Christians generally to better understand and support families who are challenged by living with a disabled child.

Judging criteria

Entries are read and judged with an eye to the: Original nature of the work.

Literary style, including suitability for the target audience.

Competence and expertise displayed by the author in writing the book and examining the underlying thesis.

2009 Australian Christian Theological Writers' Award

Winner

Paul Barnett

After Jesus, Volume 3: Finding the Historical Christ
William B Eerdmans,
Grand Rapids,
ISBN 9780802848901

Paul Barnett is one of the most productive and important Australian Christian writers of this generation. His writings on the New Testament have won him both national and international respect. In recognition both of his achievements and the calibre of this book, the final instalment of his 'After Jesus' trilogy, the judges have selected Paul Barnett for the 2009 Australian Christian Theological Writer's Award. Finding the historical Christ provides a fund of information for those seeking to better understand the background to the New Testament. It has a clear polemical design, seeking to engage with those sceptical of the New Testament documents as a reliable guide to the historical Jesus. As with Barnett's other books in the series, it is clearly structured, persuasive and accessible to both the scholar and the lay person.

Honourable Mentions

Michael Bird

*A Bird's eye view of Paul:
The man, his mission and his message*
InterVarsity Press, Nottingham, ISBN 9781844742554

From the prolific New Testament author, this is a fine, readable introduction to the theology of the Apostle Paul. The book combines up to date scholarship with a personable, easy-to-read writing style. While the book is aimed at the theological student and informed lay person, it proves a profitable and stimulating read for those in the academic fraternity. As well as addressing the traditional issues of salvation, justification and the gospel Bird brings Paul's perspective on contemporary issues, dealing briefly with such points of controversy as women's ministry and homosexuality.

Andrew Sloane

*At home in a strange land:
Using the Old Testament in Christian ethics*
Hendrickson, Peabody, ISBN 9781598560848

This is an honest and engaging attempt to confront some of the problems the Old Testament presents in constructing a Christian ethical framework. A book for both the academy and the church, Sloane writes with an easy-to-read style. In dealing with thorny issues such as slavery, holy war and ritual impurity he is frank yet sympathetic to their offence to the modern reader.

Roy Williams

God, Actually
ABC Books, Sydney, ISBN 9780733322921

Australia's best-selling religious book of last year (reprinted three times in Australia) God, Actually is a lay person's response to the arguments of the New Atheism. Williams, a lawyer, writes with honesty and conviction. This is an original and well-written book aimed at the general reader. It is a significant contribution to the growing apologetic literature that is seeking to engage and refute Dawkins and others.

2009 Young Australian Christian Writer of the Year

Winner

Leng Te

Into your mystery

The richness of life experience from which Leng Te draws, the enthusiasm with which she writes about it and the maturity with which she reflects upon it prove irresistible. The reader is quickly seduced.

Leng interweaves autobiography, Biblical narrative, journal entries and song lyrics in a way that brings the reader into the conversation between the God of infinite surprises and her personal pilgrimage and fearless probing. The issues dealt with are far from trivial and close to the everyday lives of young Christians everywhere. Each section or story concludes with a practical exercise which invites us to connect our own story with the author's journey of discovery.

Into your mystery is passionate, relevant, displays a good range of genre, excellent use of life experience and wise Biblical reflection.

I wasn't old enough to fully experience what my family went through in their journey from Cambodia to Thailand, and then to Australia. I was the child in the belly, and the woman in this story is my mother. I'm telling her story because in many ways it's my story too. It's God's story. This is a story about Him watching over us even before we knew Him. It's a story about God keeping us safe, and calling my parents to Himself at just the right time. It's about God not abandoning us even when at times it felt like there could be no God and no justice.
